With F.M.L.

A speaker is going before students at Mary Hardin-Baylor College Monday morning, a nuclear physicist from California UFO Research Institute.

He is saying: "After more than 13 years of study and personal investigation, I am convinced that the evidence is overwhelming that the earth is being visited by intelligently controlled vehicles whose origin is off the earth."

He is Stanton T. Friedman, author and lecturer who heads the California Institute, one of 12 scientists contributing to the Scientific Symposium on UFOs (unidentified flying objects) under U.S. Congress auspices in 1968.

Friedman's background includes a master's from the University of Chicago and 14 years experience in nuclear aircraft, rockets, powerplants and fusion rockets.

He says the fastest manned flying craft now in use, the Apollo Command Modules, resemble the UFOs more than conventional aircraft.

His is another voice, become louder and clearer in numbers, that somebody else is out there.

GETTING FROM A TO B...

You convince yourself first the trip is necessary and worth the carping along the way. You travel the road long before you ever depart. And beyond physical facts, you must find persuasion, timing and dramatization to make the trip interesting, even for critics.

For if you get from A to B, it will no longer be your trip, but "ours."

City To Enforce Ordinance On Public Signs

The city's sign ordinance will now be strictly enforced, according to Edwin Bigbee, city code inspector.

Bigbee explained provisions of the ordinance, noting that it will apply to any new signs erected or constructed for the purpose of outdoor advertising.

A permit for a sign must be obtained from Bigbee's office or the Texas Highway Department.

Bigbee said the ordinance covers all classifications of every type of sign such as ground sign (pole type), billboards, roof sign, wall sign, projection sign, marquee sign, or shingle sign.

The ordinance states that signs projecting from a building or extending over public property shall maintain a clear height of nine feet above the sidewalk and all signs shall not extend more than 18 inches of the curbline. No sign supports shall be placed on public property.

The ordinance states "Outdoor advertising displays means any letter, figure, character, mark, line, poster, picture, reading matter, placed, attached, painted or manufactured in any manner whatsoever, so that same shall be used for the attraction of the public to any place, subject, person, firm, corporation, public performance, article or merchandise."

This ordinance prohibits the posting of any sign for or by a candidate for public office by unauthorized attachment to a fence or utility poles.

Bigbee said authorized signs shall be subject to annual inspection as a safety precaution to the public, and all signs shall be properly maintained in good condition.

CN Bank Studies Expansion

Goodhue Smith, president of the Citizens National Bank, announced that the Board of Directors of the bank have authorized the bank's officers to make a feasibility study for the expansion and renovation of the bank's quarters at its present location.

This study will include the use of additional property which the bank expects to acquire from the Cameron Urban Renewal Agency.

Smith announced that the study will be undertaken by bank officers working jointly with Matthews and Associates Architects and Engineers located in Bryan. This is the same firm that earlier worked with the bank for the development of plans for a proposed new building at a location on North Travis.

Smith said the study now being undertaken will be concluded within the next six months at which time the bank expected to make its decision concerning which of the locations would be used for the proposed modern facility.

According to A. W. McCullin, urban renewal executive director, Smith submitted bids for the lot behind Citizens National Bank and also a lot behind J. C. Penney.

The bids will be checked by the Urban Renewal Board and certified by HUD before final acceptance. Total bid price was $7,151.50.

Area Roundup

Voters OK School Bond Issue

GEORGETOWN

Voters gave their okay for a new Georgetown High School in Saturday's election. In an almost 3 to 1 ratio, Georgetown Independent School District voted for the $2,700,000 bond issue. The new high school will be located on the east side of Highway 8, North, near the intersection of the old airport road, on 50 acres purchased by the district.

New Site For Hospital

ROCKDALE

Rockdale's new $1.5 million, 47-bed hospital project is picking up steam and the latest development is that the new hospital will be built on a new site rather than the existing hospital site. State Health Department personnel and a representative from HEW told local hospital planners that the existing site was inadequate in size and would not meet state or Federal criteria.

Courthouse Remodeling Studied

SOMERVILLE

The Commissioners Court of Robertson County has been discussing for several months the remodeling of the courthouse which is in bad shape. The county judge said the remodeling route was taken rather than trying to get the voters to pass a new building bond issue which would require in excess of $1 million, possibly $2 million.

Court Adopts Redistricting

CALDWELL

Redistricting of county commissioner precincts and voting precincts in Burleson County were adopted by the commissioners court during their regular meeting. A major change is the transfer of a section of Caldwell east of the Santa Fe Railroad, north of Southern Pacific and west of Davidson Creek is transferred from Precinct One to Precinct Three.

Prison Site Rejected

WACO

County commissioners officially rejected the airport site for a regional correctional facility by a vote of 4 to 1. The court already had released its right to the facility to the Heart of Texas Council of Governments so that other counties within the council can apply for it if they care to.

School System Overcrowded

LAMPASAS

The Lampasas school system was described as "a school in crisis" by Supt. Jack Lacy in remarks to local press. He cited a sharp and unexpected increase in student enrollment as cause for the critical situation now existent on the Lampasas campus. School administrators had expected an enrollment of 1950 students and now find themselves with 2113 pupils.

Young Draws Probated Term

BELTON

The trial of Fred Young, Jr. for the murder of Mrs. Mabel McCormick in Kountze January 5 of this year ended Friday in Belton with a guilty verdict and 5 year probated sentence. Dennis Ray Anderson pleaded guilty last week to the murder of Mrs. McCormick and was sentenced to life in prison. Both still face murder charges in the death of Mrs. McCormick's 3 year old granddaughter.

United Fund Agency...

Salvation Army Ready To Help

(Second in a series of articles about local organizations funded by Cameron United Fund. A drive for $9,000 will start in October.)

The Salvation Army is one of seven agencies supported locally by the United Fund. Other agencies that will benefit are Little League, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, community center, and USO.

Hundreds of people, local and transients, were helped by the Salvation Army in Cameron last year, receiving emergency aid.

This past summer, several local boys attended Camp Hohlitzelle, a Salvation Army facility at Midlothian near Dallas. They enjoyed a week-long outing at the modern camp free of charge.

Local services are carried out directly by the Service Unit Committee, which represents the Salvation Army in smaller cities. Help is also available from the state level of the Salvation Army.

Forrest Sapp is chairman of the local Service Unit, which includes representatives from local churches, the county welfare department and local law enforcement officials.

Of funds allocated, one-third remains with the Service Unit for its local welfare program and two-thirds are reserved for the Salvation Army's broad statewide services in which the local community is entitled to share.

Depending upon the immediate need, the local Service Unit will pay for groceries, lodgings, utility bills, rent, or minor medical or dental expenses.

The Service Unit has provided furniture for families whose homes were destroyed by fire, paid bus fares or bought gas for stranded transients, along with food. Other help included buying school supplies for children whose families were having financial problems.

State Salvation Army services are available for problems that cannot be handled by the local committee.

Rockdale Wants Deputy Sheriff

Rockdale city councilmen will ask the Milam County Sheriff's Department for a deputy sheriff to be stationed in Rockdale to serve the southern portion of the county.

Action came after a discussion of law enforcement outside the city limits. The councilmen noted that police jurisdiction stops at the city limits and that sheriff's department personnel usually have to be dispatched all the way from Cameron when the need arises in South Milam.

Mayor Harold Luckey said the request will be forwarded to the county.

tee alone. A community struck by a tornado or flood, for example, would need the statewide help of the Salvation Army to get effective relief.

There are private matters also that are best handled through inquiry from the Service Unit to the Army's state headquarters. Seeking a missing person or contacting a prisoner up for parole are functions of the Correctional Services and Missing Persons Bureau.

Volunteers Sought For Day Care Center

Cameron's new day care center will open October 1 at the frame building location at Third and Travis.

Volunteers are being sought to assist in the day-care program for 20 children, age 3 to 5, according to Mrs. Nancy Shelander, center administrator.

Mrs. Shelander is assisted by Mrs. Lucille Gelner and Mrs. Susie Hensley in running the new facility, donated by First United Methodist Church of Cameron.

Volunteers will be trained by staff of McLennan Community College, according to Rev. Coleman, president of the day care center board.

A contract was signed last week with the State Dept. of Public Welfare for partial support of the operation, which will operate from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Funds will be $7 state matching every $3 local. Rev. Coleman said. Other contributions beside cash would be "in kind", time or talent.

People wishing to assist in working with children of working mothers should contact Mrs. Betty Humble, a member of the day center board or their church pastor. Assistants will work at least one hour each week.

The Cameron center is one of about 40 centers in Texas contracting with the state for assistance, going to about 100 individual centers or branches of metropolitan centers.

Children will have pre-school or kindergarten-type schedules during the day, including games, music, library visits, naps and lunch.

Starting budget for the center is $12,000.

School Hours Change

Cameron Schools will go back to regular hours starting Monday (today) of 8:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. Buses will run 30 minutes later.

Rehabilitating alcoholics is the life work of the Men's Social Service Centers and the Harbor Light Center.

One of the Army's finest programs is the care given to unwed mothers at the Home and Hospital in San Antonio. Young victims of personal tragedy are helped physically and mentally to return to society with a new, improved outlook on life.

Patrol Reports 24 Accidents

Delbert Burlison, secretary-treasurer; and John Henderson, Jr., Fredwill Hornung, Mrs. Bobbie Looney, Mrs. Ed Laywell, Mrs. Willie Jean Henderson, Mrs. Bette Youngblood, Mrs. Alma Flores and Mrs. Humble.

Patrol Reports 24 Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 24 accidents on rural highways in Milam County during the month of August, according to Sgt. G. E. Simmons, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These 24 accidents have resulted in no deaths and 71 injured for the month of August, 1972.

The total for the County this year is 9 deaths and 73 injured in 145 accidents.

Budget Hearing Set

A public hearing on the 1972-1973 budget for the city and water and sewer department of the city will be held at a special meeting of the city council on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. at city hall. All interested persons are urged to attend.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST ME?

One of the questions most frequently asked by residents of a school district that is seeking to pass a bond issue, is "How much more will this cost me in taxes?"

One example would be taxes on a $10,000 home. Taxes are figured on 50 percent of market value, or $5,000. If the Cameron Independent School District bond election passes, it would take a tax rate of $1.40 per hundred dollars to retire the bonds.

This would mean an increase in taxes on that home from $50 to $62, or an increase of $12. The tax rate is now $1, of which 92 cents goes for maintenance and 8 cents for bonded indebtedness. A rate of $1.40 would divide into 92 cents for maintenance and 48 cents for bonded indebtedness.

The Herald invites questions or comments from readers on the proposed school bond issue, which we will attempt to answer for public information.

Murrow's Microcosm...

Edward R. Murrow, dead dean of electronic journalists, and the undersigned shared a view that microcosmic reporting surveys the macrocosmic level as well.

Murrow was cited by the television industry a few weeks ago during celebration of the industry's 25th anniversary.

Flashed on the screen was Murrow standing at a school voting box, among other pictures, during a school election. He also was remembered for challenging Senator Joe McCarthy, the "See It Now" celebrity series and his wartime radio reports inevitably beginning with "This is London."

In view of the electronic plus and minus since Murrow died, the industry and journalism would do well if another man of this stature were beamed into tens of millions of homes with the evening TV news.

Murrow was a chain

See For Yourself

Now we can see what the Mall is all about.

The last walls came down late last week and suddenly the new downtown was apparent, modern fronts facing one another.

Those who identify with old buildings may anguish smoker and wearer of a furrowed brow plowed by the weighty questions he dare ask on what otherwise is euphemistically called the "boob tube." To be optimistic, we can wonder what further boobyery might be commonplace on TV if he had not set the standard early in the game.

Murrow was the first radio reporter to fly on bombing runs during World War II. And he was about the only reporter who would stand on London rooftops during the blitz and give eyewitness accounts of the bombs landing as he had seen them falling from RAF bombers over Germany. It was the substance of modern war.

That was his kind of microcosm. He told listeners both sides of the story.

Cancer killed him, but not the reportorial record and editorial standards he set, micro or macro.

over this final step. But far more numerous are those who have been waiting more than a generation for a major change to develop.

In one final cloud of dust and a muffled "whump" of steel and brick collapsing the last wall fell.

See for yourself.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

RECALLED DINNERWARE PROVED POISONOUS

SENATOR R.S. SCHWEIKER (Pa.)... The Food and Drug Administration ordered the recall of approximately 13,000 dozen sets of imported stoneware and enamelware which have been found to contain dangerous amounts of lead and cadmium.

"The articles recalled were manufactured by Ceramano-Keramk, of West Germany, and Ishikawa of Tokyo, Japan. The West German articles were found to contain 100 parts per million of lead with some samples being as high as 307 parts per million, or nearly 44 times the present FDA standard for lead which may be released from the dinnerware.

"The Japanese articles were found to contain as much as 100 times the level of cadmium considered to be safe under present standards. "SEVERAL THOUSANDS SETS OF THIS DINNERWARE HAVE BEEN SOLD AND ARE CURRENTLY IN THE HOMES OF CUSTOMERS WHO MAY NOT BE AWARE OF THE POTENTIAL HAZARD WHICH

THESE ITEMS PRESENT...

"My bill would cover virtually all dinnerware products made in the United States and all imports. On the whole, the DOMESTIC DINNERWARE INDUSTRY IS PRODUCING SAFE DINNERWARE, EARTHWARE AND STONEWARE PRODUCTS."

"At the present time, less than one part per million lead is released into food by most products made by legitimate manufacturers. THE POTTERS ASSOCIATION tests the goods, issues seals of compliance, and submits reports to the FDA.

"As this recent FDA recall clearly indicates, the problem is that many marginal pottery shops and foreign producers are not subject to the tests. My bill will enlarge the FDA authority in several important ways.

"The bill would allow the FDA to get into this problem at the manufacturing stage. BEFORE the articles have been released into the market..."

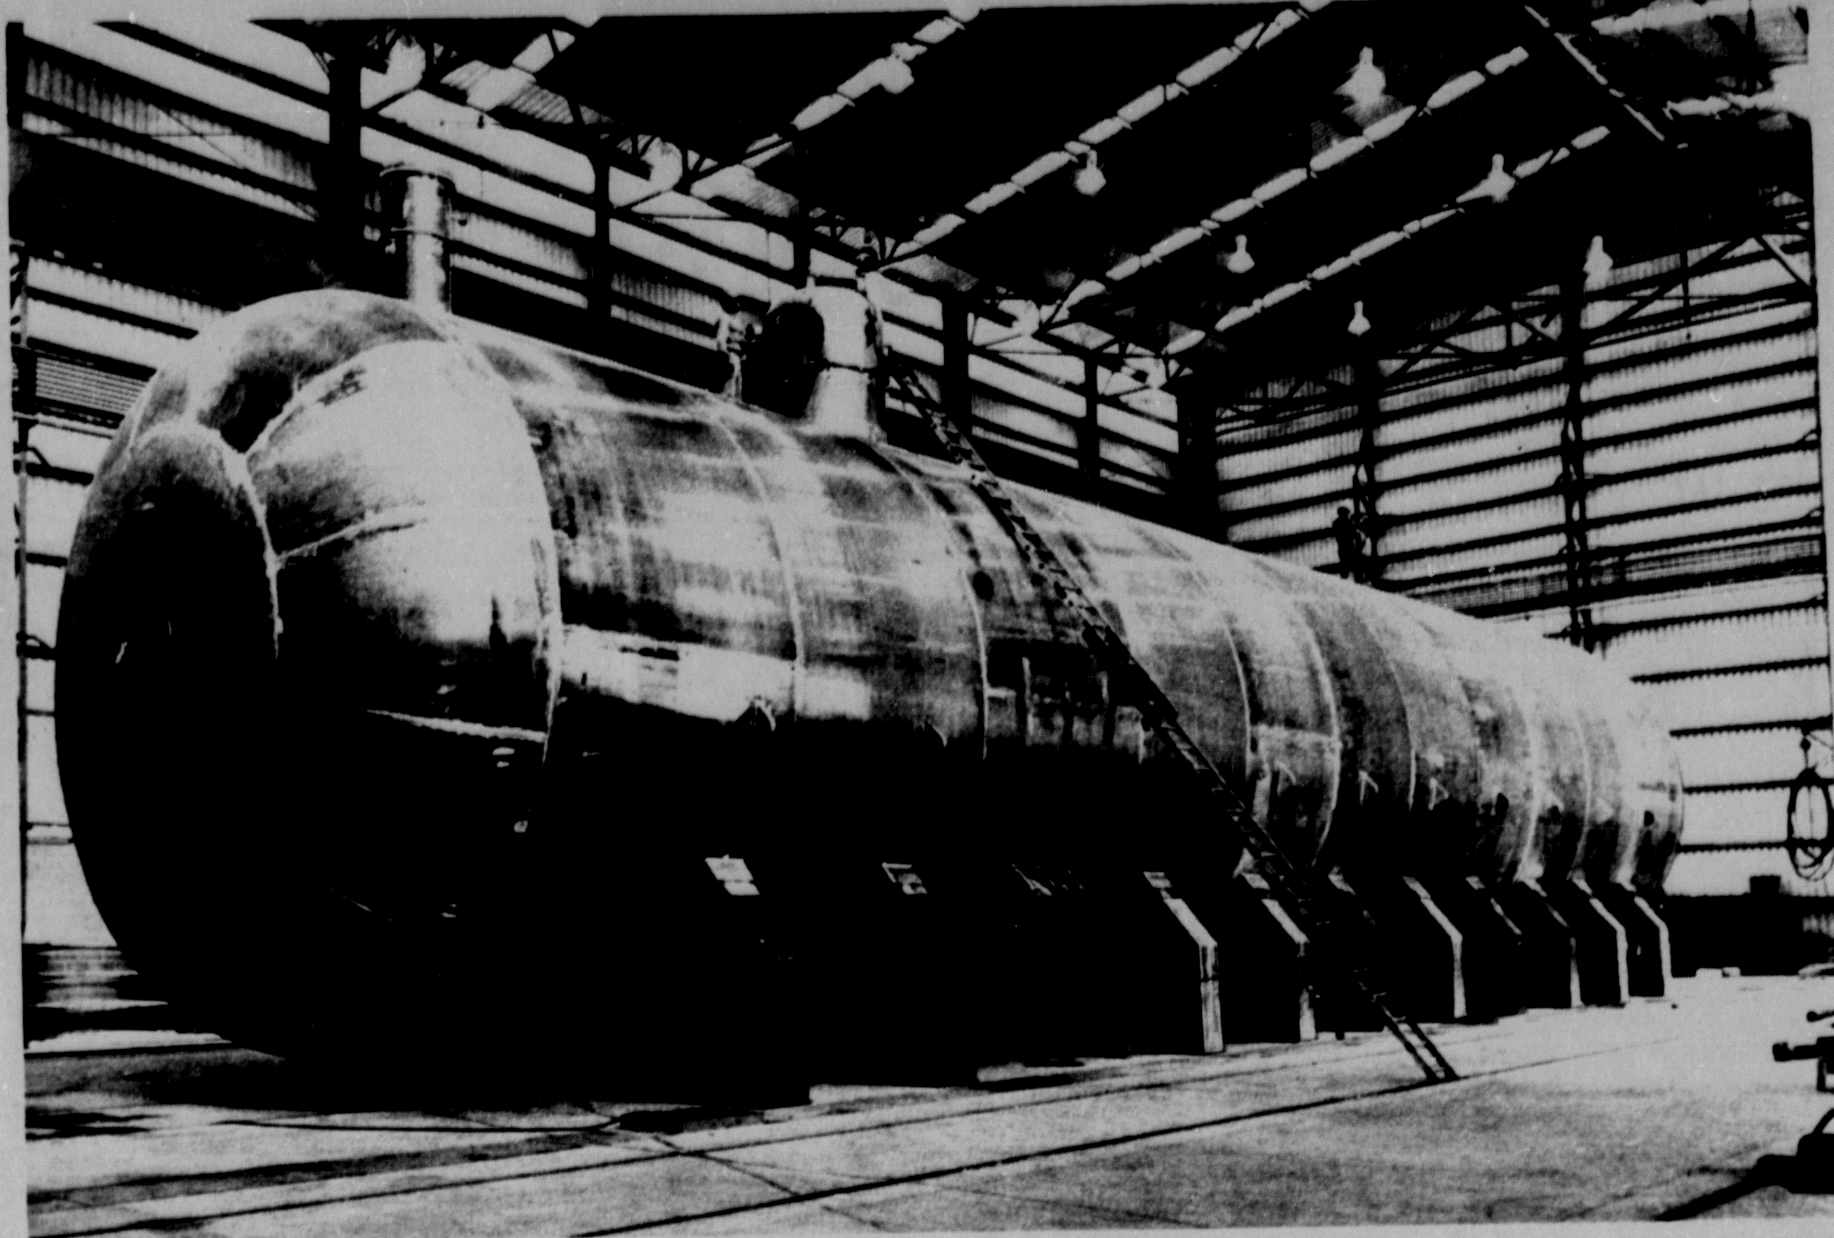

"Senate bill S 3136 would add new labeling requirements for dinnerware which would facilitate identification of recalled articles by the consumer..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A brand name is no guarantee that the product was manufactured in the U.S.A. For example a 10 Transistor portable radio with the MAGNAVOX label on the front will be found to have stamped dimly on the back, JAPAN. Some dinner plates will carry the FRANSICAN Earthware trademark. MADE IN U.S.A. Other dinner plates will carry the FRANSICAN White-stone Ware trademark. MADE IN JAPAN.

It would appear that THE POTTERS ASSOCIATION could use some support.

Session Has Bumpy Start In Austin

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex.--The special session of the Legislature got off to a bumpy start last week with Gov. Preston Smith's proposals facing tough criticism.

Critics of the governor's competitive insurance rating bill charged it repeals some of the best provisions of the Texas insurance code.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and others insisted on a state-set ceiling if competitive rating is passed. Senate sponsor, Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas, indicated he would go along with that.

The governor's budgetary control bill met a mixed reaction in its first committee test. Proponents said it would help put "fiscal responsibility" in state government, but opponents claimed it would make the governor a fiscal "czar." The latter were particularly critical of a provision that would let the governor alter agency budgets when he found "evidence that the expenditure is not necessary."

Smith assured another lively appointments hassle in the Senate when he nominated his secretary of state, Bob Bullock, to the State Board of Insurance.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes denied reports that he was trying to line up votes to block Bullock's confirmation by the Senate.

Bullock's name was sent up as a replacement for Smith's longtime friend, Larry Teaver, who was rejected for Insurance Board membership last July by unfriendly senators.

PARTY CONVENTIONS

Harmony prevailed at both Democratic and Republican conventions, although there was enough controversy at both to make them interesting.

Democratic gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe got his choice for State party chairman (Calvin Guest of Bryan) and was allowed to write the platform about the way he wanted it. In return, he agreed to accept a liberal, Sen. Barbara Jordan, as State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman. Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio and Mrs. Billie Carr of Houston (liberals and George McGovern backers) and Hall Timanus of Houston (a George Wallace supporter at the June convention) were named to new Democratic National Committee posts. Briscoe may, or may not, have control of SCEC. Some counts evaluated the breakdown 26-26 liberals and conservatives with 10 moderates as the balance of power.

Republicans had little to squabble about. They wrote their own state platform and re-elected Dr. George Willeford and Mrs. Malcolm Milburn as state chairman and vice-chairman.

APPOINTMENTS

Accepting resignation of Robert W. Calvert as chief justice of the State Supreme Court, Governor Smith said he would designate Associate Justice Joe R. Greenhill chief justice. Smith's legal aide, Hawthorne Phillips, will fill the vacancy on the High Court from October 4 (date of Calvert's resignation) until January, Smith said.

Terry Townsend of Austin was appointed by Smith to the governor's Commission on Physical Fitness.

Secretary of State Bullock finally got around to issuing a commission of office to Dallas County Commissioner Roy Orr -- after Orr was replaced as State Democratic chairman. Bullock contended Orr couldn't hold both offices.

FUNDS CLEARED

Texas will receive a $120,414 federal grant to fight animal diseases.

Money will supplement Texas Animal Health Commission's eradication programs aimed at screwworms, scabies and fever ticks.

This year Texas is suffering its worst fever tick outbreak since 1941, according to Commission Executive Director Dr. H. Q. Sibley. Parts of Jim Wells, McMullen, Duval, Live Oak, Kent, Nueces, Leon and Dimmit counties are under tick quarantine.

Governor Smith also noted Texas is facing its worst screwworm epidemic since 1961, and scabies has struck in several areas.

ENROLLMENTS GROWING

Teas college and universities are still climbing, though not so fast as in the early 1960's.

About 454,000 students enrolled in public and private, junior and senior colleges by September 14. This compares with about 438,000 at the same time last year. The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System concludes there will be about a three and a half percent increase in enrollments this fall over 1971.

Enrollment in all segments of higher education last year was more than 475,000, and projections by the Board point to about 493,000 this year. While senior college enrollments are up less than one percent, the community colleges have an increase of more than 11 percent in their student bodies.

SUPERPORT PROMISED

Gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe promised top priority efforts to secure a deep-water superport for Texas.

Briscoe said it is vital to the economy to get a port capable of handling ships with drafts of up to 100 and 120 feet. He said the state is "blessed with having several desirable locations."

SHORT SNORTS

Texas Air Control Board has been approved for a $2.1 million federal grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Seven hundred and 54 new Texas lawyers were licensed in ceremonies here Monday.

Texas industrialists are offered exhibit space on the Queen Elizabeth 2 for a floating trade fair to North Africa, the Middle East and Europe in 1974.

An application has been filed for a state bank in Fulton.

A new study of the role of motor vehicles in air pollution is underway in the Houston-Galveston area, one of 14 national air quality control regions to be checked.

There are more Texas voters over 64 than in the much publicized 18 to 20 bracket -- 16 percent for the senior citizens, 10.4 percent in the youth bracket.

This is Texas Highway Week -- with speeches and observances marking the event over the state.

A House study committee has been set up to review water district legislation passed during the last two legislative sessions and determine if it was in the public interest.

Texas Highway Commission is accepting bids this week to facilitate traffic movement in South and far West Texas.

Paint, Paper 'n Soap Brighten Child Care Center

PINT SIZE chairs get a bright coat of paint at Cameron Child Care Center from Mrs. John Gelner and Mrs. Charles Hensley. Weekend volunteers applying paper, paint and carpentry included Clarence Crook, Jim Bledsoe, John Henderson, Jr., John Henderson, III, Alvis Coleman, Ernest Hensley, Ed Foster and Eddie Huntsmann. The Child Care Center will open October 2.

Cameron Child Care Center staff and volunteers have found it takes more than state licensing and grants to open a day care facility. Pre-opening weeks require people willing to don work clothes and paint, scrub and scrape.

Mrs. Bill Shelander, director of the center, has been elbow deep in pink, blue, green and yellow paint for two weeks. Giving her a helping hand with painting, papering and making curtains are staff members Mrs. Charles Hensley and Mrs. Johnny Gelner and volunteers Mrs. Andrew Youngblood, Mrs. Douglas Perrin, Mrs. Don Humble, Mrs. W. C. Freeman and Mrs. Mary Yoe.

Though rooms are a clutter of small chairs and tables in various stages of refinishing, evidence is strong that by opening day, October 2, the little house at 3rd and Travis will be a bright and friendly haven for 20 pre-school children.

Mrs. Shelander said there is still some equipment on the "wanted" list such as shelves for toys, children's books, kitchen utensils and a vacuum cleaner. "We have ordered a dish washer on faith," Mrs. Shelander remarked. "Faith that someone or some organization will help us pay for it."

Actually the center should be able to hold its own financially after the first few years. There are numerous grants available once a community has proved its interest in getting a center in operation. An example is Marlin where a day care center opened a few years ago with a handful of children, a minus budget and a determined director. This year the Marlin center is operating on a $50,000 plus budget (a combination of government and private grants) with facilities for 75 pre-school children.

The Marlin center is also a success in preserving human resources. When the center opened children enrolled tested in the lower 6 percent nationally in social and mental development. After only 6 months the same children tested a near average 48 percent.

Cameron's Child Care Center staff and volunteers had their first day of training Saturday. Dr. Ann Garrett, director of the child care program at McLennan County Community College, led a 4 hour seminar on record keeping, curriculum and personal contacts. She will return later in the fall to give additional training. "We need more volunteers willing to give a few hours or possible a day a week to the center," Mrs. Shelander said, "and we hope they will sign-on in time to take the training course under Dr. Garrett."

Volunteers interested in additional information can contact Mrs. Shelander or Rev. Alvis Coleman, president of the Child Care Center board of directors.

Citizens Rights, Responsibilities Theme For Delphian Club Year

The rights and responsibilities of citizens will be the over-riding concern of the Cameron Delphian Club in programs planned for the 1972-73 club year. Year books with the theme "Our Heritage - Grants, Rights and Demands, Responsibilities" were presented to club members during the first meeting Tuesday at the Cameron Public Library.

Hostesses for the opening meeting were Mrs. Ed Gunn, Mrs. E. J. Burkes and Miss Mary Belle Batte.

Mrs. Ray Jensen presided at the meeting and Mrs. W.

C. Freeman presented the year books. Programs for the year are titled Rights and Responsibilities in Political Life; Rights and Responsibilities to our Country; Reverence for Religious Ideas; Responsibilities to Needs of Others; Reverence for History; Respect for Work.

Mrs. J. A. Bowling, chairman of International Affairs for the Capitol District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, reported on the recent district board meeting.

New members, Mrs. Douglas Perrin and Mrs. Alex Groppell were welcomed by the president.

Refreshments of ice cream, cookies and punch were served following the meeting.

Czech Day At Fair

The 32nd Czech Day at the State Fair of Texas has been set for Sunday, October 8. Plans for the observance will be coordinated by the American Czech Festival Society, John G. Bubak, president.

"It is our desire that we all take an interest in the Czech Day program, whether it be program suggestions or a visit on Czech Day," Bubak said. "It is a day that touches all of us in the tradition spirit."

Landscape Design Set At A&M

COLLEGE STATION Garden club enthusiasts from seven states will study landscape design during a three - day program scheduled Oct. 3-5 at Texas A&M University.

Sponsored by Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., the "Landscape Design Course 4" is one of 18 scheduled across the U. S. this year under a national continuing education program by the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.

TAMU landscape architect Robert H. Rucker said the course is designed to give community leaders an appreciation of good landscaping and train them to return to assist in creating a pleasant community environment.

Educational Aid For War Veterans Wives

Seventy-six women whose husbands were veterans of World War I were among some 10,000 wives and widows of veterans who trained last fiscal year under the Veterans Administration Dependents' Educational Assistance program, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

Nearly a third of the trainees were wives or widows of World War II veterans, Coker reported. The largest block -- 3,857 -- were dependents or survivors of Vietnam Era servicemen. Two - thirds of the trainees enrolled in college, and the balance were in vocational or educational courses.

VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance program extends to children, wives and widows of veterans who died of a service-connected cause or who were totally and permanently disabled in military service. Also eligible are wives and children of servicemen who are prisoners of war and those who have been missing in action for more than 90 days. During fiscal year 1972, a total of 64,600 women and children took advantage of the program; an 8.5 percent increase over the previous year.

Persons who consider themselves eligible for the assistance should contact the nearest VA office, veterans county service officer, or a service representative of a veterans organization.

DPS Program Aimed At Fatal Rural Auto Crashes

The Texas Safety Association is watching closely the development of a new four-month experimental program to try to reduce the number of fatal rural traffic crashes in Harris County. Hopefully the program will yield data which will help enforcement agencies in all sections of the state improve their traffic safety efforts.

The program called "Project SAVE" and funded by the U. S. Department of Transportation through the Texas Traffic Safety Administration, will be conducted September through December of this year. During this period, the Texas Department of Public Safety will double its patrol coverage in Harris County with an additional 15 Highway Patrol units in service for a daily average of 29 cars working. An intensive public education campaign to seek driver cooperation has also been launched.

Special emphasis will be given to identification and arrest of drunk drivers, and full utilization will be made of breath testing instruments. During the project period DPS officers expect to double the number of drunk drivers arrested in rural portions of Harris County during the last four months of 1971.

Most patrol units will be equipped with speed radar devices, and six of the cars will have a new type radar which can be operated while the patrol vehicle is in motion.

"This is another fine example of a new trend towards preventive traffic safety," said J. U. Parker, President, Texas Safety Association. "The concept is a valuable one and I am sure Texas motorists will have practical rewards from this kind of project."

"TSA has long advocated firm, fair enforcement as a fundamental part of traffic safety and we hope that this program will result in a reduction of traffic accidents which will impress all police and sheriff departments," Mr. Parker added.

COUNTY NEWS

Countians Attend GOP Convention

Three Milam County Republicans were among the more than 2,000 delegates and alternates that attended the GOP State Convention on Monday and Tuesday. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tumlinson and Lloyd Albertson, all of Cameron.

Held in the spacious Dallas Convention Center, the Convention program featured the Texas GOP's brightest stars -- including Senator John Tower, Mrs. Ann Armstrong, State Senator Hank Grover and other candidates and party officials. They were joined by Governor Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, who was the keynote speaker.

Dunn devoted much of his address to a defense and praise of President Nixon's policies and accomplishments. He especially commended the administration's "Southern strategy." "They treat the South like the rest of the country," he said. And as one-party domination continues to be broken in the area, he predicted that "Republicanism is the wave of the future."

Mrs. Ann Armstrong, in her speech, which matched the one she gave at the Republican National Convention in Miami last month, also praised Nixon. She was greeted by shouts of "Viva! Ole!" as she took over the microphone, and smiled and waved in acknowledgement.

Senator Henry (Hank) Grover's appearance at the microphone was preceded by a film of scenes of his life and political career that was shown on a forty foot screen above the stage. He made only a brief speech, but when he predicted he would defeat the "bumbling, vacillating, indecisive" Democratic candidate Dolph Briscoe in the Governor's race, drew a standing ovation from the convention.

Highlight of the Convention was the speech by Senator John Tower. His appearance on stage set off an enthusiastic demonstration by young people carrying signs and banners that lasted eight or ten minutes.

In a short, hard-hitting speech, Tower leveled sarcasm at three targets, Senator George McGovern, former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, and his Democratic opponent, Barefoot Sanders. He charged that Ramsey Clark, who recently made a trip to Hanoi, was a "buddy" of Sanders and had contributed $2,000 to his campaign. He linked both Clark and Sanders to McGovern and his radical ideas.

"They seem more interested in bringing back draft dodgers from Canada than our prisoners of war from Hanoi," he said.

Concerning Sanders' charges that he has been absent from the Senate frequently, Tower said crisply: "It is how you vote when you are there that matters. I was there voting when it counted, and I was back in Texas helping people when it counted."

Foreign Trade Mission Will Boost State

Seven Texas industrialists returning from a two-week trade mission to Brazil will realize more than $3 million in sales during the coming year plus an estimated $5 million in sales over the long term.

James Havey, director of the Texas Industrial Commission's International Trade Division, made the prediction following the state's second foreign trade mission this year.

Havey also said there is an excellent possibility the Brazil trip could boost future sales for Texas industrialists over the $5 million level.

"It is difficult to place an exact dollar amount on the business we generated since several of the firms were interested in joint ventures and licensing agreements, but obviously the market is going to expand," he said.

The mission, sponsored by the Texas Industrial Commission in conjunction with the U.S. Department of Commerce, made stops in three of the South American country's largest cities -- Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro and Belo Horizonte.

Belo Horizonte, a booming city of approximately 1.5 million people, was not scheduled on the original itinerary, however, following requests from a large number of the city's industrialists the manufacturers spent one day in the city before returning to Texas.

James Harris, assistant director of International Trade Division, who led the group, called the trip a tremendous success, citing Brazilian industrialists' eagerness to deal with Texas manufacturers.

"We had originally scheduled 150 appointments with Brazilian manufacturers," Harris said. "Before the tour was over, we had met with more than 200 in addition to extending the tour an extra day to visit with manufacturers in Belo Horizonte."

Texas industrialists received a tremendous response to the mission in all three cities, especially Rio de Janeiro where more than 250 industrialists welcomed the group with a reception. The U. S. Consul General of Rio de Janeiro called it one of the largest he had ever seen, Harris said.

Harris attributed the large response to Texas manufacturers and their products. "The Brazilians are anxious to trade with Texas firms and they were impressed with several of our industrialists' interest in joint ventures and licensing agreements."

Harris also noted that Texans are becoming well-known in the field of international trade. "This is our second foreign trade mission this year. Our first mission to Russia and Romania generated approximately $45 million in sales and the Brazilian industrialists are well-aware of the first mission's success and our growing strength in the field of international trade."

State Committee Studies Immunization Programs

"One-fourth of the young student population at the Texas School for the Deaf received their disabilities from German measles, a disease that could be eradicated by an effective program of immunization," said Senator Bill Patman of Galveston today in Austin during his speech to the State Coordinating Committee on Early Childhood Development.

Senator Patman said that a recent survey of the medical records of 200 students in the Primary School of the Texas School for the Deaf, with birthdates ranging from 1960-1966, revealed that 52 students suffered deafness which was definitely attributable to maternal rubella, also called German measles.

Rubeola, the ordinary type of measles, is also a severe gripper in Texas, according to Senator Patman, with lifetime care for mentally retarded patients from measles infection during the last five years to cost $1,126,755.

"This lifetime institutional care will, of course, be required over the coming years, but represents extreme tragedy to the families affected, and an expenditure of state funds urgently needed for prevention," said Senator Patman.

In 1970 Texas, with less than 6 percent of the nation's population, had over 70 percent of the nation's cases of polio, over 50 percent of the nation's cases of diphtheria, and 23 percent of the nation's cases of measles. The 1971 Legislature appropriated additional funds to the State Department of Health for an active preschool immunization program, as almost 60 percent of the children struck down with polio in the last five years were under six years of age.

Patman said that his Committee is studying improved techniques for immunization campaigns, and a more effective computer program to identify children who have failed to receive the necessary immunizations against polio, diphtheria, measles, and other childhood diseases that can be prevented by immunization.

EMMETT BATTISE

Battise Named Indian Agent

INDIAN VILLAGE

The Texas Indian Commission has announced the appointment of Emmett D. Battise as Superintendent of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation of East Texas. Battise, a full-blood Alabama Indian, becomes the first Indian to hold the position of Indian Agent in Texas since the post was created some 150 years ago.

Battise, who is "Mikko Atokla" or second chief of the Alabama and Coushatta Tribes, also becomes the first tribal chief to hold an administrative position at the reservation. He was selected second chief, a lifetime appointment, by members of the two tribes in January of 1970.

He was born on the reservation, which is near Livingston, Texas, February 5, 1922. He is one of seven children.

Battise's first schooling was at the Presbyterian Mission School at the Reservation. He later attended Livingston High School where he was an outstanding football and basketball player. After graduating from high school, he attended Chillicothe Indian School in Oklahoma for one year before entering the service of his country in World War II.

Battise served in the U.S. Army field artillery and attained the rank of staff sergeant. In North Africa he received the Bronze Star for bravery for repairing severed communication lines under fire.

He returned to the reservation in 1945, and started playing basketball with the well-known Indian Independent team. A college scout saw Battise in action, and he was given a scholarship to Stephen F. Austin State College in Nacogdoches. The scout's judgement in athletic ability turned out to be good. Battise quickly became a favorite of the fans, and was given the name "Little Chief". The name turned out to be no misnomer, for little did those who gave him the name realize he would one day become second chief of his tribe.

Battise went into the career of teaching and coaching following two years of business after finishing college. His first school job was at New Summerfield. He remained there until 1965 when he took a position of head basketball coach and math teacher at Rusk High School.

Battise is an elder and lay minister in the Indian Presbyterian Church. In addition he is active in a number of civic and youth programs.

Rep. Kubiak Attending Session On Insurance

"The insurance problem has simmered within the sensibilities of all driving and homeowners Texans for over a decade," Rep. Dan Kubiak commented in his weekly newsletter.

Kubiak is attending the fourth called special session of the Texas Legislature, which was called to try to settle the insurance problem.

Kubiak noted that Texas is the only state of all 50 which regulates its premium rates for automobile and home-owner insurance policies by a determination made by a regulatory agency.

The other 49 states permit the insurance companies to set the rates competitively. Each year Texans spend $4 billion on insurance premiums -- an amount equal to the entire state budget, he said.

"Several items must be written clearly into law concerning any changes in auto and home insurance plans," Kubiak said. "First, the companies must sell a standard insurance policy so that fly-by-night companies will not sell something they do not have. Second, the companies must meet some financial responsibility with the state so that they are

Texas Cattle Feeders Name New Executive

The Texas Cattle Feeders Association, headquartered in Amarillo, has named Charles E. Ball of Dallas as its new executive vice president, effective Nov. 1.

Tom Herrick, president of the association, made the announcement following a recent TCFA executive committee meeting in Amarillo.

For the past 20 years, Ball has been Southwest Regional Editor of Farm Journal, the largest farm magazine in the nation. In that capacity, he traveled extensively throughout the United States and abroad, searching for new and profitable ideas to pass on to Farm Journal's 2,400,000 subscribers.

US Chamber Cites Inflation Causes

Success in the effort to control inflation is basic to the resolution of virtually every other problem facing the nation, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States contends.

Inflation results when our national government spends more than it collects in taxes, and when the supply of money is expanded faster than the production of goods and services on which it will be spent.

Obviously there is only one way to curb it: Spend less and restrain the expansion of the money supply.

Here's the five-point program developed by the National Chamber to halt the relentless rise in government spending and impose a ceiling on such spending by the Congress and the Administration:

- * Project all major spending over a five-year period.
- * Re-evaluate all spending at least once every three years.
- * Pilot test every proposed major program before it is put into operation nationwide.
- * Require a joint congressional committee to evaluate the budget as a whole.
- * Subject trust fund programs to the same spending controls as other tax-supported programs.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Helping The Troubled

Opportunities for volunteer work in community mental health are broader than they have ever been and the needs are great for many more workers than are now available.

Under the national community mental health program, new services to prevent mental illness and to help its victims are being developed in many localities all over the country.

The work of mental health centers, clinics, and hospitals with schools, courts, churches, and other community organizations and agencies now offers the volunteer--no matter what his age or inclination--new and fascinating ways to contribute to community betterment.

How much the contributions of volunteers can mean to mental health work is exemplified in program after program all over the U.S., as, for instance, in 16 rural communities in Virginia, where former State hospital patients live too far away to go back to the hospital for outpatient treatment and after-care.

Western State Hospital in Staunton, which did not have the funds to employ enough social workers to followup on ex-patients, enlisted volunteers. In each of the 16 communities, a "Community volunteer" is designated to be chairman of a unit program.

This volunteer attends weekly staff conferences at the hospital, during which the patients in his unit program are discussed. He assigns jobs to other volunteers and himself visits some of the patients regularly in a neighborhood way.

Volunteers often call on a patient's family before he returns home, helping to pave the way for understanding and acceptance. When necessary, they make arrangements with community agencies that might help out.

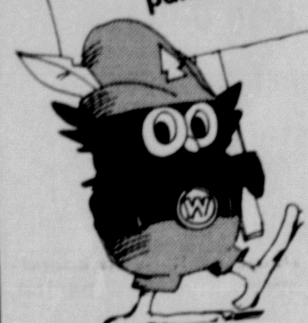

They see to it that where clinics are accessible, appointments are kept, they try to locate jobs for the mentally restored, and they aid in many other ways to help the patient readjust to being out of the hospital.

The theory and practice of the Western State Hospital volunteer program seem to work. After the first 18 months of the project, every one of the 75 ex-patients was still living at home.

Dream Power.

Every person that lives has some kind of dream. The day he doesn't, he's dead. The ability to imagine is one of the most precious powers we have.

Dreams change things. Some dreams may change your world. And some dreams may call for money.

U.S. Savings Bonds are the safe way to make sure some of your dreams come true. And, they're easy to buy. Your bank sells 'em. Or, you can probably buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Bonds build you a sizeable nest egg. While you build a dream.

Bond power. That's real dream power.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

Prepare Hunting Gear For Coming Season

COLLEGE STATION
The fall hunting season is fast approaching and Texas sportsmen will want to get "geared up", as far as their equipment and physical condition are concerned.

"A little time and effort devoted to getting your field gear and physique 'in shape' can be a big plus for that upcoming hunting adventure," contends Dr. Milo Shult, area wildlife specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A good beginning for the equipment check is your firearm. Clean the piece carefully, giving special attention to the bore and the action.

"Carefully sight in all rifles and handguns," suggests Shult. "This will not only prevent disappointment over a missed shot but also will help the shooter get the 'feel' of his weapon again."

To sight in center-fire rifles, use the bullet weights and powder charges that you expect to use in the field. Determine sighting distances by the type of game to be hunted and the likely terrain. As a rule of thumb, shot groupings from 50, 100 and 200 yards will prepare the hunter for most situations.

The specialist suggests that handguns be sighted in for distances up to 60 yards. Accuracy is difficult at greater distances. Remember, range safety is of critical importance with all firearms but especially with handguns, cautions Shult.

For the shotgun enthusiast, the specialist suggests getting in a little trap or skeet shooting.

Another good practice is "patterning" the shotgun. This can be done by firing at large sheets of paper or cardboard at distances of 15, 25 and 50 yards. Thus the hunter will know how his weapon performs at those distances with whatever load he is using.

For the hunter with a double barrel, slide-action or semi-automatic shotgun, it's good to fire more than one round to get used to getting off a second or even third shot.

An equipment check is also so in order for the archer. For instance, broadheads may need sharpening. Shult suggests practicing with silhouette field targets rather than bullseyes, since this gets the archer accustomed to firing at "vital spots" rather than just "at the deer."

Most hunters carry some type of cutting tool for dressing game. These knives, handaxes and bone saws should be checked and sharpened.

Shult emphasizes that wearing apparel also needs checking. Footwear is especially important as a painful blister can ruin an otherwise enjoyable hunting experience. Boot stitching should be checked and the leather should be oiled or treated for comfort and protection. It is a good idea to break in new boots before starting out on a long day's hunt.

In addition to checking his gear, the smart hunter prepares himself physically for the field, notes the specialist. "Many of us work at jobs which don't allow us to stay in shape for that once - a - year hunting trip. Perhaps the best solution is to start early with sensible exercise. This may mean just walking every day or it may include jogging and dieting off a few pounds. Remember, more hunters die from heart attacks brought on by over-exertion than from firearm mishaps."

The sportsman who begins preparing his gear and his body now will have a much more rewarding experience in the outdoors when hunting season rolls around, contends Shult.

West Trojans Make Final Seconds Push. To Upset Yoemen With Tie

By Marilyn Hauk

After controlling the ball game for most of its duration, the Cameron Yoemen witnessed the West Trojans come back in the last 43 seconds to tie the score 14-14.

The Yoemen started scoring early in the second quarter when Will Turner managed a 64-yard drive from the three. Gene Kopriva kicked the extra point.

Cameron came back again in the second quarter with a drive from the West 45. With a first down on the West 4 Roland Young took a one yard loss for a second down at the West 5. George Whiteside came back on the next play to carry the ball to the West 2. Roland Young then put six points on the scoreboard with his touchdown and Gene Kopriva kicked the PAT. The score stood 14-0.

The Trojan's score came in the short time just before halftime. They steadily drove the ball from their own 38 to the Cameron 9. At this point an 8 yard pass gave the Trojans control at the Cameron 1. David Snookhous plunged across the goal line. He then passed to Kenneth Taylor to make the score 14-8 at halftime.

The Trojans score that tied the game came late in the fourth quarter. With 43 seconds to go West took over on its own 24 yard line. Snookhous passed to Taylor for 21 yards, the Yoemen were struck for roughing, and West was put 15 yards closer to the goal. A 39 yard pass into the end zone was incomplete but interference was called and the Yoemen had to give them the ball at the one yard line. Snookhous passed to Clifford Sullivan for the score but the Yoemen halted the bid for the PAT. The game ended in a 14-14 tie.

1973 Buick Wagons. There's one for every size family.

Families are something special to Buick. Which is why Buick offers such a wide array of wagon choices for 1973.

Six wagons in all, from the modestly-priced Century to Buick's most luxurious station wagon, the 1973 Estate Wagon.

All of Buick's new wagons have specially tailored suspensions to help maintain superb handling and riding comfort, even when loaded. All have Buick's AccuDrive, for forward stability on bumpy roads, winding roads or in strong cross-winds. All have power front disc brakes for smooth, straight-line stops.

The smaller wagons for 1973 include the Century and Century Luxus, both available in four-door models with two or three seats. And an easy lift-up tailgate for loading ease. And a huge cargo area.

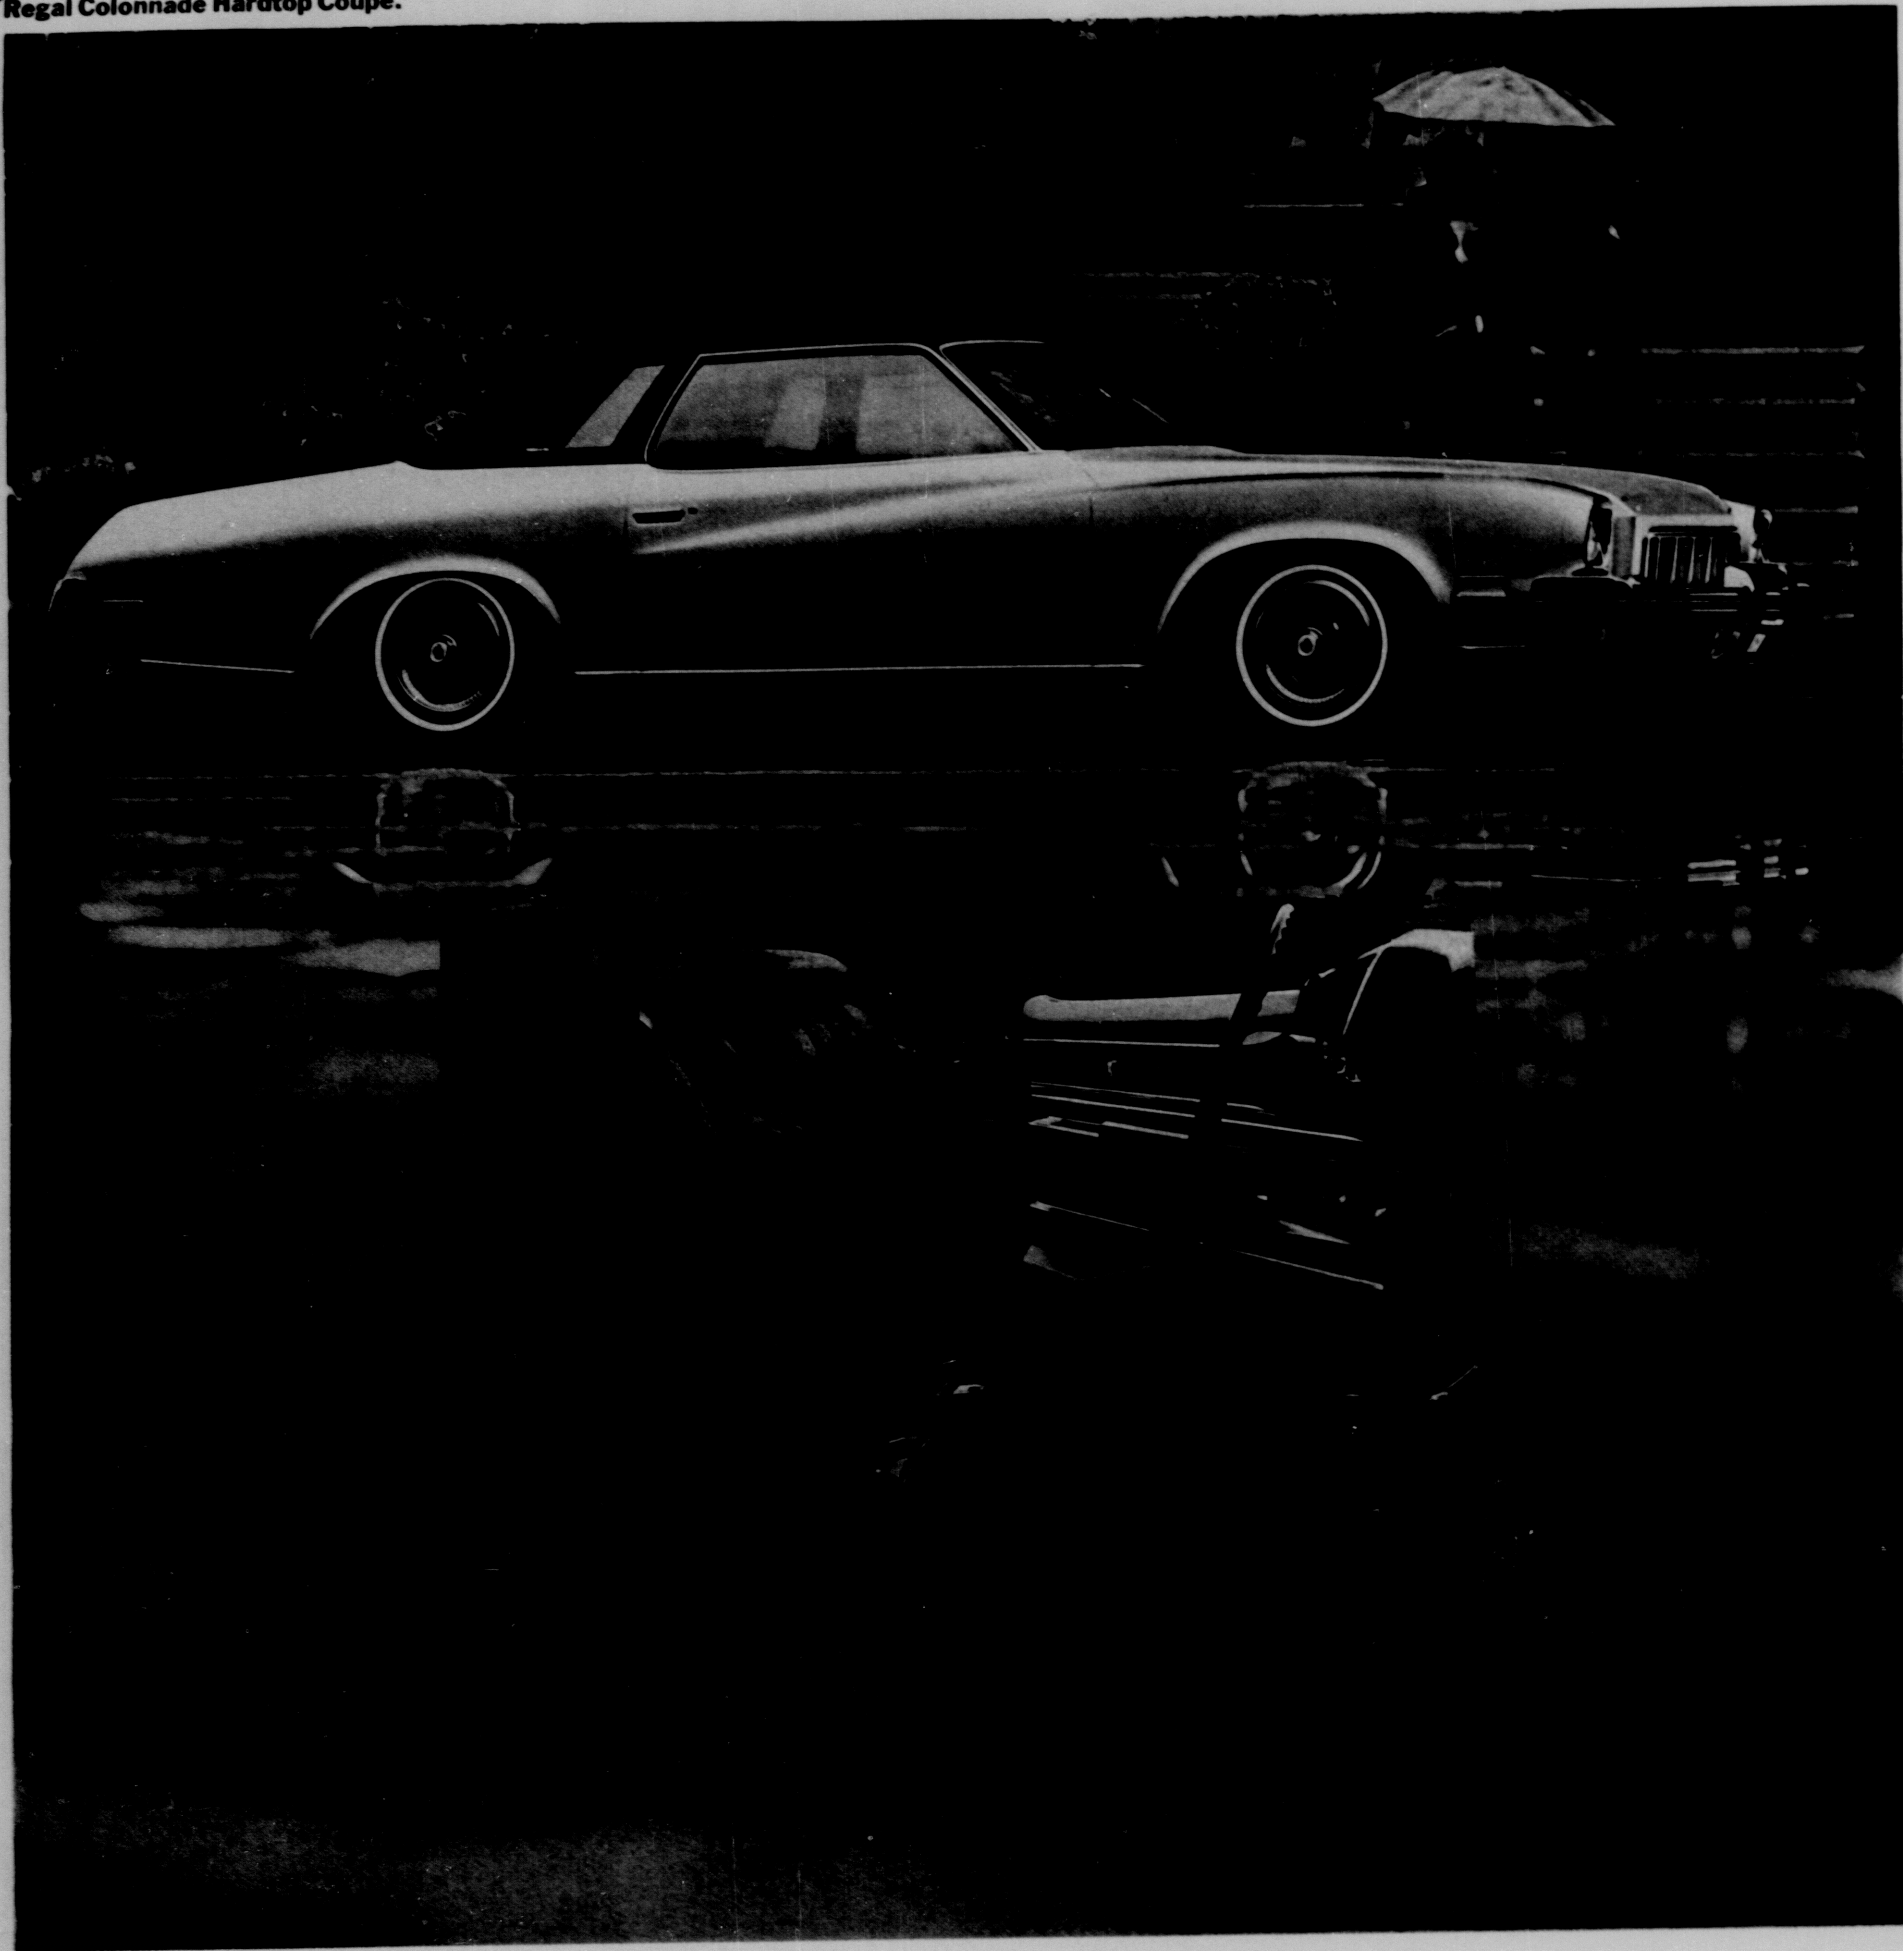

The Estate Wagon comes with four doors in a two-seat model or three-seat model with forward facing rear third seat. The rear glass glides away into the roof electrically and the gate slides under the floor to reveal a whopping cargo capacity of 106 cubic-feet.

Whatever your station wagon wants are, there's a good chance Buick can fill them. And fill them better.

The 1973 Buick engine story.

All new Buick engines for 1973 have a new emission control system.

A special exhaust gas recirculation unit and air injection reactor help reduce pollutants, yet provide smooth idle and good performance on no-lead or low-lead fuels. And a time-modulated choke system helps control emissions while giving quick starts and smooth operation during warm-up.

Buick engineers have gone to a lot of trouble in 1973 to create the kind of engine smoothness you've come to expect from Buick. And that comes from building in an emission control system as an integral part of Buick's engine.
